Mediation is the process of choice for separating families

At Consilla Mediation we recognise that the process of divorce and separation is a stressful time and can be very traumatic. Our accredited mediators are highly skilled at dealing with difficult and challenging situations.

We help you and work with you to resolve important issues affecting you and your family in a constructive and cost effective way.

Why Choose Mediation?

Family mediation enables you to negotiate outcomes fundamental to your family's future rather than hand over control to a Court.

As experienced solicitor mediators we understand and have a current working knowledge of the law. This means that we can help you to negotiate outcomes within the parameters of important legal principles.

We help you and the other party to consider options and reach agreement in a way which is fair to you and your children. As mediators we do not provide legal advice but legal information and actively encourage you to seek legal advice as part of the mediation process.

Under the Child Arrangements Programme and in Financial Remedy cases, you are required to attend a MIAMS appointment before issuing a Court application save in exceptional circumstances.

Child Mediation

We can help you to come to decisions around a table with our experienced mediators and to continue to work together as parents going forward. We assist you to work out practical arrangements in relation to the care of your children and how you will co-parent them.

Financial Mediation

We can work with you to achieve a financial resolution associated with the breakdown of your relationship in relation to property and other financial matters.

The process of mediation involves exchanging financial information and documentation and thereafter negotiating an outcome which meets your needs and the needs of your family.
